

--ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

A rotating electric machine for high-voltage operation includes a stator, rotor and windings. The windings have high-voltage cables that enclose an electric field. The machine also includes a device for controlling a fault current, where the fault current is conducted to ground at an end winding region by way of an electrically conducting material.--

09297570-062499
664290-0252660